

WE NOMINATE

David Livingstone Crawford, newly designated Secretary of 149-year old Princeton Seminary, who 13 years after his ordination as a Presbyterian minister is undertaking responsibilities which underscore the Seminary's essential mission of raising up a succession of men "at once qualified for and thoroughly devoted to the work of the Gospel ministry." At a point in the world's history when both developed and under-developed nations, and institutions, are reaching out for trained teachers and ministers, the 36-year old Crawford has started working in the broad field of alumni relations with some 5,000 Seminary-developed products.

Formerly pastor of Princeton's steeple-less Second Presbyterian Church, a post he held from 1957 until his appointment to his present position last month, and an able teacher on the secondary-school, college and seminary levels, Crawford is concerned with a major guidance, or counselling, program that stretches from Nassau Street to all continents, and to parishes hard-to-locate in these United States. While "churches call," and the Seminary, half of whose graduate students are not affiliated with the Presbyterian Church, doesn't attempt to "place," it is highly significant that this past year more than 1,100 churches and schools and colleges turned to the Seminary in their efforts to recruit high-talent manpower.

To his new assignment Crawford, a native of Yonkers, N. Y., and son of a Presbyterian pastor, brought a wealth of practical experience. Following his graduation from the Seminary in 1947, he taught and coached for a year at the Mt. Hermon School, Northfield, Mass., and from 1948 until 1956 was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Plainsboro, a parish which derives much of its strength from "cutting across" sectarian lines. During the same years he taught at both the Lawrenceville School and Princeton Seminary.

Crawford, Assistant to Seminary President John A. Mackay in 1956-57, continues to maintain an almost legendary interest in athletics. Quarterback of Amherst College's undefeated football team of 1942 (conqueror of a Williams team that had whipped Princeton in the 1942 opener), he has not missed a Palmer Stadium football game in the past 12 years. As a Plainsboro and Princeton pastor, his Saturday afternoon schedule has often gone like this: the first quarter in Palmer Stadium; a sprint to a waiting car in the second period; a wedding ceremony in the environs of Princeton, then a rapid return to the Stadium for the last quarter and, finally, a return, after the game, to the reception for the marriage he had performed an hour earlier.

President this past year of the Princeton Pastors' Association, and the kind of out-reaching individual who can't traverse a Nassau block without being halted for a half-dozen conversations, Crawford continues to strengthen five local and state organizations: The Princeton Waldensian Aid Society, the Mercer County Y.M.C.A. Board of Directors, the Administrative Leadership Committee of the N.J. Presbyterian Synod, the N. J. Council of Churches, and the Westminster Foundation of Princeton University. It is small wonder that in 1957 he was singled out by the Princeton Junior Chamber of Commerce for a "Man of the Year Award."

For unselfish service in all facets of community life; for seeking to help others in grasping the significance of the "total nature of the Christian ministry;" for adding a new dimension to the Seminary's on-going development, he is Town Topics' nominee for

REPUBLICANS WIN
Against the Tide, While Democrats were replacing President Eisenhower in the White House with Senator John F. Kennedy, Republicans in Princeton (and in the neighboring municipalities of Lawrence and West Windsor) were compiling victorious totals at the polls. Tuesday's election results were indicative of many a split ticket: best example—Republican Sen. Clifford Case rolled up a landslide margin here to aid him in his successful campaign for re-election but Democratic Congressman Frank Thompson Jr. carried the Borough.

Closest race in Princeton was that for Council, with Albert A. Austen, who took second place on the winning Republican ticket, defeating the top Democrat, Robert W. van deVelde, by a scant

"Divided Family" Happy

A father and daughter, campaigning on opposite sides of the fence, both had good reason to be content with the outcome of Tuesday's election.

Township Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman, running for re-election on the Republican ticket, received widespread endorsement at the polls and was returned to office for another three years. At Poughkeepsie, N.Y., his daughter, Lisa, also partook in a successful campaign. She was co-chairman of the Vassar Students for Kennedy Committee.

96 votes out of more than 4100 cast. Top candidate on the ticket was Dr. Edwood W. Godfrey, with Democrat Gordon T. Waldron last.

By filling both vacancies on the Borough governing body, the GOP regained control of the municipality, which it had lost in 1959 for the first time in more than a quarter-century. The incoming Republicans will replace Richard W. Colman and Richard A. Lester, Democrats who did not seek re-election.

The Republican campaign of triumph was greater in Princeton Township. With more than 4800 voters going to the polls, Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman won by better than 700 of the total cast, and was joined by his running mate, Maurice F. Healy Jr., who led Richard T. Frost by over 500 votes. Simon F. Moss finished last, with the returns maintaining the 4-to-1 margin on committee the Republicans have held for several years. Mr. Healy will replace Committeeman Stanley C. Smoyer, who did not seek re-election.

Referendums Approved All of the public questions appearing on Tuesday's ballot received the voters' backing. Most vital to Princeton was approval of the proposal to create a joint public library between the two municipalities. Township voters gave the question an affirmative vote by better than 10 to 1 (3779 to 350), while the Borough voted 2670 "yes" and 504 "no."

The Township localities better than 3 to 1 to the proposed law exempting those over 65 with incomes of less than $5000 from a portion of their real estate taxes. The referendum gained state-wide approval by a wide margin.

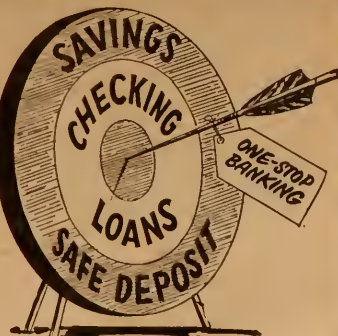

Vote Here Relatively Light. Despite the high interest in the Presidential campaign, less than 80 percent of the voters in the Borough went to the polls. The exact figure was 78.7, with the Township electorate bettering this turnout slightly as it recorded a percentage of 81.3. Top district figure was the Township's seventh, in which 342 of 398 eligible voters went for nearly 90 percent.

Vice President Nixon carried the normally Republican Borough by only 186 votes (2217 to 1949).

but did better in Princeton Township, where he defeated Sen. Kennedy, 2819 to 1972. Sen. Case ran far ahead of his ticket in winning easily, carrying the Borough by 1240 and the Township by better than 2200. His margin throughout the State was 340,000. In the face of a Kennedy victory by some 40,000. It was the first time since 1934 that New Jersey had gone Democratic at the Presidential level.

Rep. Thompson carried Princeton Borough by 70 votes, and came closer than any Democrat in Princeton Township, where he lost by 350. As it had for virtually every year in the post-war era, Mercer County went solidly Democratic.

Freeholders Joseph R. Gruccio and Thomas Rhodes were returned to office by 14,000 to 18,000-vote margins out of some 112,000 ballots. Joseph S. Holland was named sheriff by 25,000, while the top vote-getter at the county level was Clark William H. Falcay, who pulled 31,000 more than his Republican opponent.

Election Round-Up. Voting machines were out of action briefly Tuesday morning in the Township's fifth and ninth districts as a result of short circuits. The voting was extremely heavy but the 8 p.m. lines of those waiting to cast ballots failed to materialize. The tabulations were completed

The major candidates on the various tickets at the state and national level polled a few votes, led by the Conservative Party's choice for U.S. Senator, who drew a total of 25 in Princeton. Election heli: a Valley Road School pupil will sit in his teacher's chair for six days because he bet on Sen. Kennedy... had Vice President Nixon won, the boy would have received nine extra days' homework.

ROUND-UP
 Princetonians attending the Yale-Princeton football game at New Haven Saturday will find the 318-page program contains a special supplement which pays tribute to two former coaches, the late Charlie Caldwell of Princeton and T.A.D. Jones of Yale... a special train will leave the lower yard of the Pennsylvania Railroad here at 8 a.m. Saturday, returning after the game. Friday, Veterans' Day, will be a holiday marked by the closing of banks, municipal offices and the post office... the general alarm which sounded Friday shortly after 12:30 p.m. was for a fire in the second floor bedroom at 108 Leigh Avenue. The tenants, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Bullock, were at work at the time... Fire Chief James Face said defective wiring probably started the blaze, which gutted the room in thorough fashion... a direct fire alarm signal connecting St. Paul's School and the radio officer's desk in Borough Hall has been installed, with the school meeting the expense as a safety precaution for its pupils.

Patrolman Arthur F. Gallant of the Borough Police Department was burned last week when the gasoline in the engine of his motor boat caught fire... off duty at the time, he was working on the boat at his home, 8 Erdman Avenue, and was burned on both hands.

Accidents continue to occur on the two hazardous bridges on the outskirts of Princeton, one over the Millstone River at Kingston, the other over Stony Brook on Mercer Road, three Leavittown, Pa., residents were taken to the Princeton Hospital Saturday evening with minor injuries after their car skidded on wet leaves and struck the Mercer Road bridge.

The Township tax map for 1961 will be available at Township Hall on Monday, November 21, with orders now being accepted by the municipality's engineering department. The map shows all property owners' orders should be submitted in writing and accompanied by a $35 check.

Tickets for the theatre, concerts and athletic events which cannot be used will be welcomed by Princeton undergraduate and graduate students, they may be left at the Porter's Lodge, Graduate College, with further information available through Kenneth Nicoll (WA 3-2422).

JOINT MEETING PLANNED

For Borough, Township At the request of Township Committee, its members will meet later this month with Borough Councilmen to consider several matters of interest to both municipalities. The two governing bodies have not conferred together in more than a year.

The question uppermost in the minds of Township Committee-men: Where does Borough Council stand on consolidation? Township Committee appropriated money for a consolidation survey, and Borough Council said it "would consider" such an appropriation. However, the money has never been appropriated and in the letter requesting a joint meeting of the two governing bodies, Township Committee asks Council to state its position on the consolidation survey question.

In addition to consolidation, the two groups will discuss such mutual concerns as the joint library, the joint budget for fire protection, sewers and incinerator, and the possibilities of joint pressure on the state for Route 206-A and on the county for the loop road. Committee suggested to Council that the meeting be held after election so that newly-elected officials might sit in on the meeting.

The problems of Route 206 were discussed briefly at the Township Committee meeting Monday night when Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman, expressing his despair at the possibility of getting any action out of the state in reducing speed limits on state highways said he would like to "set a lobby going" with other communities to exert pressure on the highway department. He said he thought that municipalities should have "local option" on speed limits as they do on such things as liquor licenses.

In regard to the 206-Ewing intersection, which holds the highest accident rate in the Township, Mayor Fairman said that if the Township could obtain the necessary rights of way, the state would build a jug-handle opposite Ewing to eliminate the hazard.

Streets and Sewers. Township police chief James Campbell, Jr. and Township Engineer James Breth would like Committee to prohibit over-night parking on Township streets. Mr. Breth and Committeeman Stanley C. Smoyer cited Harrison Street, Birch and SOMEBODY WINS, SOMEBODY LOSES. A Borough and a Township candidate cast their votes an election day. Maurice F. Leigh Avenues and Jefferson Road as particular trouble spots, pointing out that many Borough residents park their cars there because the Borough forbids all-night parking on its streets.

"Where would people park if we did this?" asked Mr. Smoyer. "I think it would be a special hardship for people on Birch Avenue."

Township police will be asked to survey the areas involved to see where people could park if the streets were closed to all-night parking.

Committee passed unanimously an ordinance adopting a new fire-prevention code based on the 1960 code of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. There will be a public hearing on the ordinance on November 21 at 8 p.m.

The land use plan for part of Community Gardens has been completed by the firm of Clarke and Rappapano and approved by the Board of Education and the Board of Recreation Commissioners. Committeeman William M. Marvel told Committee that the drawings will now go to the Township Planning Board for approval as part of the land-use section of the Master Plan.

After this, the Board of Trustees of Community Gardens will formally deed the property over to the Township. A public hearing will be held on November 21 on the ordinance appropriating $7,500 to retain Clarke and Rappapano.

After some last-ditch pleading by some Rosedale Road residents, Committee passed unanimously the ordinance to extend the Rosedale Road sewer 1320 feet; that is, from a point slightly west of Galbreath Drive East to Galbreath Drive West.

Mr. Marvel told the principal objector, Charles Jaffa of Rosedale Road, that the soil in the area did not meet percolation tests, and that the state law would not allow individual septic systems under such circumstances. A. J. Cunningham of Trenton was the low bidder on the sewer, presenting a figure of $9,300.

Committee also passed an ordinance to accept part of Overbrook Drive. Princeton Construction, the developer, has said that the section of road would be paved as soon as the Township accepted it. Paving has not been done so far because of conflict of ownership over the right-of-way.

REPUBLICANS WIN

In Lawrence Upper Republican candidates for Township Committee in Lawrence Township were elected Tuesday, ending three years of Democratic monopoly of the governing body. Only the Township Clerk, Mrs. Marie B. Lovelace, was victorious of the Democrats seeking office. Clifford W. Spedeker Jr. topped the balloting with 3855 votes. His Republican running mate, Philip M. McHugh, received 3629. They defeated William Hunter, 2840, and Samuel A. DeGasperia, 2623. The Committee will remain in Republican hands, 3 to 2.

The Republican candidate for tax assessor, H.B. Lyon, won over the Democratic incumbent, Peter J. Russo, by 71 votes. Their respective totals: 3463 to 3332. Mrs. Lovelace polled 3559. She defeated the Republican choice, Mrs. Wanda M. Christill, who drew 3168.

In West Windsor, West Windsor split its ticket Tuesday, electing a Democrat and a Republican. The result leaves unchanged the 2-1 margin the Republicans have enjoyed on the Township Committee.

Democrat Francis J. Ward was a winner, polling 535 votes to 838 for Bernard Mount, Republican. Arthur L. Everett, GOP nominee for the expiring term of Russell Munn, defeated Democrat Marie T. McKenzie, 1004 to 753.

COMMITTEEMEN NAMED

To Miss Fine's P.O. Drive, Mrs. Douglas Delaney and Frederick E. Adams, Jr., have been appointed vice-chairmen of the Miss Fine's School-Princeton Country Day School Joint Development Program, and of the campaign's Steering Committee. The appointments have been announced by Frank E. Taplin and Mrs. Hilben Ziesing, co-chairmen of the program.

The Steering Committee, consisting of eight members, will direct the campaign, which is scheduled to start next spring.

Political Forecast

No Frost this Fall
In Township Hall,
It's gonna be Fair, Man!

— ANNA LYST

Turning his thoughts from politics to his chosen field, the Man reported plenty of frost during the past week, the kind that w... steadily taking over the last blooms in the garden.

A warming trend was scheduled to bring rain, he reported, with the wetness possibly lasting into Friday. Then lower temperatures again but generally clear throughout the weekend.

Other members of the Committee are Mrs. Barklie McK. Henry and Richard W. Baker, Jr., chairman of the Boards of Trustees of the Boards of Trustees of the two schools, Miss Shirley Davis, headmistress of Miss Fine's and Peter Rothermel, headmaster of Princeton Country Day, and the two co-chairmen of the program.

Mrs. Delaney, whose children attended both Miss Fine's and Princeton Country Day, served for 15 years on the Board of Trustees of Miss Fine's. Her mother served on its first Board. Mr. Adams is director of the Pierpont Morgan Library in New York and president of the Yale University Press. He has been chairman of the Joint Committee on Architecture appointed by the Board of Trustees of both schools.

PATROL CAR WRECKED

Answering Call For Help, A 1960 Borough patrol car was wrecked beyond repair when it collided with another automobile early Sunday morning at the intersection of Nassau Street and Vandewater Avenue. No one was seriously injured, although two persons were hospitalized as a result of the accident.

Admitted to the hospital were Patrolman Thomas J. Proacciano, 25, of 19 Erdman Avenue, driver of the police car, and Mrs. Eva Bergstrom, 56, of Mill Road, Princeton Junction, a passenger in the other car. Mr. Proacciano complained of chest pains, had four teeth knocked out, and was treated by Dr. James E. Hastings at Princeton Hospital for a severe laceration of the lower lip which required seven stitches to close.

Mrs. Bergstrom, who also complained of chest pains, refused hospital attention but was taken there by the First Aid Unit ambulance at the request of her husband. She was admitted by Dr. Hastings for treatment of three fractured ribs and multiple contusions.

Norman Bergstrom, 59, driver of the second car was found to have contusions of the chest but no fracture. The fourth person involved in the collision, Chace-nium Charles D. Harris, 27, of

News Of The THEATRES

BRAYO, MOLIERE!

Farce at McCarter. If the Association of Producing Artists company at McCarter had performed nothing during its fall season except the Moliere farce "Scapin," the season could be marked as an extraordinary success. This company of accomplished actors presented last weekend the most dazzling piece of pyrotechnics that Princeton has seen in some time, a Moliere so fast, so brilliant and so full of wit, muscle and voltage that it almost took the top off the theatre.

Translated by Ellis Raab and Stephen Porter and directed by Mr. Porter, the 17th-century farce was acted by a troupe of virtuosi, including Nicholas Martin, Keene Curtis, Donald Moffat, Ralph Drischell and Jack Dodson. Naming them in that order does not necessarily mean that they performed on that scale of excellence. Keene Curtis as "Scapin," Donald Moffat as "Geronte," Nicholas Martin as "Octave" were equally superb, and both Mr. Curtis and Mr. Moffat were applauded and cheered by the audience more than once after certain particularly delightful turns of acting skill.

Mr. Moffat, whose craftsmanship in "The Seagull" was noted in this column, exhibited again the care he spends on small details of characterization. For his elderly miser, he affected an ancient, shuffling gait as tight and pinched as the old man's wallet, constantly moving fingers always on the prowl for gold, a shaky old voice and a quivering face as sad as a Bassett hound's.

TWO IN 'EARNEST' Donald Moffat, left, and Keene Curtis are shown as costumed for "Scapin," one of the three farces reviewed in this week's "News of the Theatres." The two are appearing this weekend in the APA McCarter production of Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest."

Set upon by the wily Scapin, he turned to the audience a mournful dead-pan that—well, nobody rolls in McCarter's aisles, but that was the general effect.

Mr. Curtis' "Scapin" was an acrobat in limb and tongue, a scamp who leaped into every scene—literally—shot off his fireworks and leaped out again, a handsome rogue with an unbelievably taxing part to play, and a fantastic number of sides to learn. He never tripped once with either tongue or limb and considering his 90-mile-per-hour speed, this was an extraordinary accomplishment.

Nicholas Martin, playing a role similar to the one he carried successfully in "The Lady's Not for Burning" was properly frenzied as one of the two lovers. Ralph Drischell, costumed like Scapin but in grey-blue stripes rather than in Scapin's bright red, was hilarious as the gruff-faced "oh-no-not-again!" foil of the raffish hero.

To detail the plot would be ridiculous. Mr. Raab and Mr. Porter have translated it into fast, glib lines and Mr. Porter directed it for jet-powered speed. Without the speed, the skilful direction and the superbly adroit acting, "Scapin" might have been a shade long. With all three, it was the high spot of McCarter's fall season.

And In Addition. On the same bill, the company offered "Box and Cox," the 19th-century vaudeville war-horse, and a curious, low-key sketch of William Butler Yeats, "The Cat and the Moon." "Box and Cox" is a dated farce that must have made them slap their thighs in 1890, but seemed a trifle relevant in 1960, in spite of the skill of Jack Dodson and Tucker Ashworth as the two beleaguered room-mates. However, it's a pleasant old museum piece that nobody gives much any more and for that reason alone, it had validity.

"The Cat and the Moon" was acted with a fast change of make-up by Tucker Ashworth who had just been "Mr. Cox" and who appeared in the Yeats work as an old time beggar and Mr. Drischell, who had not yet tricked Moliere and who appeared as Yeats' blind beggar. Sustaining the pair in their search for a miracle of healing at the Well of St. Colman was a trio of musicians whose plaintive songs were perhaps the most memorable things about this brief sketch. "Cat" served as program as a quiet change of pace, but seemed otherwise to belong to another genre.

"An Evening of Farce" displayed as nothing else could, the ability and versatility of this troupe of players. Three of the company played sharply contrasting roles in two completely different kinds of plays, and they performed as capable professionals who can take anything and—Continued on Page 6

ELISA IS A CHARMER

Miss Lanchester is a hit. Miss Lanchester is a bonny little woman with roguish eyes, complete poise, and a wonderful sense of the ridiculous. She has great charm and warmth, and both qualities were much in evidence in her performance before a near-capacity audience Sunday afternoon in McCarter Theatre, part of Series 1 of C.K. Productions. The program, entitled "Elisa Lanchester Herein, Censored by Charles Laughlin," was an intricate musical revue, and consisted primarily of songs ranging from openly risqué to just plain lawdy. Miss Lanchester's voice won't shake any rafters, especially in McCarter, but her diction, timing and professional delivery enable her to put over a song very effectively.

She was at her best in pieces requiring use of the dramatic talents she has in abundance. A particularly successful number, for example, was one detailing the drab, uneventful life of a girl whose boyfriend was sadly lacking in glamor, which ended with the plaintive refrain, "It may be life—but ain't it slow." Equally entrancing was a brief piece about vendors of cat meat in London, which gave Miss Lanchester a chance to emit some of the most likable "Meows" to ever come from a human being. Other numbers rating special mention are "Charity," which included the following lovely rhyme, "It was rumored her spaghetti—could make a man forget he—had a wife and child at home," a piece entitled "His Niece, He's Clean, He's British," done with pizazz and a pronounced English accent, and the heart-tugging tale of a "Catalogue Woman" whose husband was proud "he could order what he wanted."

Costumes (barely). Not content with simply mussing up her cinnamon hair or adding occasional props to suit the various numbers, Miss Lanchester also went through a total of six costume changes. Her outfits ranged from evening dresses in cherry red chiffon, black tulle and charrreous satin, all breathtakingly elegant, to a tailored gray wool suit and a vivid purple cape with a red lining.

Most sensational, however, was a take-off on a Gatsby costume, made of royal blue and black velvet, covered with enough silver beads to blind the last seat in the balcony, and worn with a tremendous black hat foaming over with multi-color ostrich feathers. Like her other outfits, this one had a full skirt well suited to the capering dance steps with which she enlivened her songs.

Accompanying Miss Lanchester on two pianos were Ray Henderson and Don Deitcher, both talented musicians. In addition to keeping pace with Miss Lanchester and occasionally participating in her act, they gave piano solos, together and individually, that should be classed as top rate performances rather than mere interludes.

To help you in your hunt, two Princeton hunters have set up shop at 275 Liberty Avenue (just off the corner of Witherspoon). Here, in the cool of a fall evening, you may poke around among the bows and arrows, the shotgun shells and the hand-warmer, stocking up for the stalk.

The reason you have to do this in the evening is that the two proprietors work elsewhere during the day. The shop is open from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. five nights a week, Monday through Friday. Its name, by the way, is the Princeton Archery and Sporting Shop. Trust a hunter to pick a straightforward name.

Well, the shop has all gauges of shotgun shells, and everything you need for cleaning a gun. You may even buy a gun cleaning kit, with oils, solvents and so on all in one package. There are hunting knives, decoys which are made to your order, folding stools and flannel-lined gun cases ranging in price from $1.65 for suede cloth, to $4.50 for a sturdy plastic model.

Bows are laminated fibreglass, light and durable as any bow made. They come in various weights, of course, and may be had on order if you don't see exactly the one you want. Shafts of fibreglass, cedar or aluminum are available in arrows, and there are arrows for target shooting

Prince in Residence

The Prince of Oragne antique shop in Hopewell has been put together out of a Victorian barn which stands behind the First National Bank on Broad Street. You reach the shop and its ample parking space, either from the bank's Broad Street driveway, or straight in from Blackwell Avenue.

What you find is a cheery red barn with a new floor of old bricks, if that makes sense (and it does). As so much display space that such items as seven-foot mantels, Show sideboards and enormous dishes appear in harmonious proportion to their surroundings.

Wide windows have been let into the sides of the barn, and flowers and plants have been grouped in pleasing arrangements with the antiques.

as well as standard arrows for the field.

For the hunter himself, the shop has windbreakers, insulated socks and what the hunters call insulated innerwear, although it's actually just plain old underwear. There are also insulated booties to wear over your sock and inside your boot.

The two owners of the shop, James Tamasal and Charles Gentilin, are qualified instructors licensed by the state to teach bow and arrow technique, so you may begin from the beginning and end up—who knows?—with a pair of antlers for your fender.

PRINCE IN HOPWELL

Antique Shop Opens. The land once belonged to him, after all, so it seems only appropriate that a shop in Hopewell should bear the name of the Prince of Oragne. The shop was refer to is a new one full of lovely old things like shagreened beds and Napoleonic screens, Sheffield dish covers and Welsh china. It is the pride and property of Mrs. George Gallup and Mrs. Walter Edge who have combined their knowledge of antiques with their skill as decorators to achieve a shop full of charm and variety.

The sleigh bed is a hand-painted ivory one, three-quarter size, with kittens, chubby little girls, roses and Victorian charm painted around its curves in shades of pale blue and rose.

The Napoleonic screens are four-panel affairs done in a kind of grisaille. There are two of them, each one depicting on its panels a different battle scene. Ask a history buff which battle. The Sheffield dish covers are giant oval half-domes, about two and one-half feet long and 12 inches high at the apex. They belong in some fine public dining room or in a club, unless, of course, you have a private dining-room scaled to their size.

Welsh china is displayed in cheerful color on the shelves of a cupboard along with decorated ironstone pieces, bowls, plates, covered dishes and so on.

The prize of the shop is a splendid old deal mantel seven

INTIME TO GIVE MARLOWE
"Jew of Malta" Scheduled.
Christopher Marlowe's "Jew of Malta," will be given in Murray Theatre next week by the members of the University's Theatre Intime group. The play will open next Thursday at 8:30 p.m.

Montgomery Davis will direct and Ralph Esmerian will star as "Barabas." Mr. Esmerian has been seen before in Princeton, having played in "The Revenger's Tragedy" and "Ondine." William Harman, who appeared in the Intime production of "Age of Anxiety," will play Hamor and Fran Kerne, who recently appeared in the Intime's production of "Recollections," will play Abigail.

Other members of the cast will be Betty Funsell, Eddie Ulickia, Alan Pearlman, Bruce Partridge, John Ives, Dennis Horn, Steven Kimmelman and Thomas Dillingham.

"PLAIN AND FANCY" SET
By Hightstown Drama Group.
The Hightstown Theatre Guild, newly-organized amateur drama group, has chosen the popular musical, "Plain and Fancy," for its first presentation. The show will be given Tuesday and Wednesday, November 15 and 16, at 8:40 p.m. at the New Hights Theatre, Hightstown.

Michael E. Lyon, manager of the New Hights Theatre, organized the group and is directing the current production. Members of the group, the first community theatre in the history of Hightstown, come from all towns. Membership is still open.

Tickets to "Plain and Fancy" may be purchased at the theatre or may be reserved by calling Hightstown 8-9875. Reserved tickets must be called for 48 hours in advance of the performance.

THE PLAYHOUSE

All the Fine Young Cannibals (November 9-12) may sound like a sequel to "Suddenly, Last Summer" but it is in fact no more than one of those incredibly weepy pictures that Hollywood whip up every now and then as "a showcase for young talent". In this case the scriptwriter is presumably a young talent too, he writes with all the maturity and insight of a prolix four-year-old. The young talents on view are Natalie Wood, Robert Wagner, George Hamilton and Susan Kohner. Pearl Bailey is house-mother.

As for the plot, Wagner is a trumpet player who had an unhappy home life. Miss Wood is a blossoming Southern girl who had an unhappy home life and seems to take voyeuristic delight in seeing the scars inflicted on Wagner by his late father. Hamilton, a Yale student and Miss Kohner are the children of a rich guy. Miss Wood runs away from home, telling Wagner she is carrying his child but refusing to marry him. And then Miss Wood marries Hamilton, secretly. And then Miss Kohner gets jealous of Miss Wood, and marries Wagner. And then Miss Bailey helps Wagner to break into the jazz world. And then Miss Bailey dies, apparently from unrequited love. And then...

YOU'RE RIGHT—YOU REALLY DON'T HAVE EARLOBES: George Hamilton and Natalie Wood share a tender moment in "All the Fine Young Cannibals," on view at the Playhouse through Saturday. Robert Wagner, Susan Kohner and Pearl Bailey are also featured.

Our favorite espialization of this film came several months ago, when a trade reviewer noted with evident seriousness that Jeff Alexander's dissonant musical score "gives the film an aura of neotalk grandeur." Uh-huh. The young talents generally behave as young talents, and Miss Wood blossoms with great ease. You can see all this in CinemaScope and color.

Children, who have the good sense to be bored by the type of thing described above, can attend a special show of their own at the Playhouse at 1 p.m. Saturday. The program includes "The Day and the Pirates" in color, plus cartoons.

Surprise Package (November 13-15) is a pleasantly frantic and sometimes funny farce adapted from Art Buchwald's novel, "A Gift From the Gods." Yul Brynner, that giant of comic subtlety who is appearing at the Playhouse with fiendish regularity, is starred, along with Mitzi Gaynor and Noel Coward.

Coward is the deposed monarch of an obscure country who meets Brynner, a deported American gambling king, on an island off Greece. Coward still has his wildly valuable crown, and Brynner wants it. He wires his American cronies to send him cash, but instead Miss Gaynor arrives as a gift from the gods. Brynner enlists her unwilling and in his plot to obtain the crown, and she tries to convince him that honesty is the best policy. Miss Gaynor is charming and attractive, and Coward is fun to have around, especially when he's singing the title song.

Surprise at Campobello (November 16-20) is Dore Schary's moving and tender tribute to Franklin D. Roosevelt. Schary wrote the screenplay from his Broadway show of the same name, and was the producer. Ralph Bellamy appears as FDR, Greer Garson is brilliant as Eleanor, and Hume Cronyn portrays Louis Howe with a nice blend of hard-headedness and affection.

The story is limited to the years from 1921 to 1924, so those who found the later behavior of Roosevelt less than entirely laudable may be excused if they applaud. It begins when Roosevelt is stricken with infantile paralysis while on a family sailing expedition off the island of Campobello, and concludes with his faltering steps toward the lectern as he accepts the Democratic nomination for governor of New York. A lot of it is overplayed, but the emotional impact is genuine. The film is in Technicolor, there are striking shots of Campobello and Hyde Park.

Net four inches across the top. In spite of its size, it is not massive because the old pins are so gently worn and the elaborate carving is so free and graceful. The carving extends all across the top and down both sides.

Another impressive large piece is the decoupage screen on which a pattern of ivory and pale green roses has been worked against a light coppery background to produce a design of considerable distinction and complete fascination, of course, for anyone who has ever tried decoupage.

Among its smaller pieces, Prince of Orange has a pair of open-work sterling salt cellars with glass linings ($6.50) and two heart-shaped white earthenware salt cellars at $3.50 a pair. A hanging shelf ($18) has a rack for six spoons and a little drawer for bits of string.

The "manny chair" is an old-fashioned little girl's who appreciate the quiet black and gold upholstery and the curving S-line of the frame.

BROCADE OR MOHAIR
A Place for Each. Elise Goupil reminds you of the uses of elegance with a McMillen brocade shirtwaist in emerald or maize. The emerald's brocade is milkweed puffs, the maize's pattern is crisscrossing horses. Both are cut with a skirt of cluster pleats and roll-up sleeves.

Brocade shimmers again in a copper russet sheath sprayed with gold, sunset and yellow chrysanthemums. It is plain, to let the fabric carry the star role, cut with a U-neckline and no sleeves.

Mohair has been woven into a coat that's an exclamation point of fashion. Unlined, it has wide short sleeves that come above the elbow. Their cuffs are almost touched by a giant plate of a collar which narrows to form the unbutton front of the coat. The collar and front are edged with black braid. The coat itself is deep raspberry.

Italian knitters have spun out a silk knit one-piece dress with a deep U-neckline front and back, a straight skirt and knit bands to hold in the waistline. French knitters send along a taupe wool shirt-waist cut severely with tab pockets, straight skirt, wide belt, long cuffed sleeves and wooden buttons. No nonsense about this one.

THE GARDEN

End of Innocence (November 8-12), one of the rare films to be produced in Argentina is a beautiful, moving exploration of a young girl's emergence from a fanatically religious home to the gladness and sorrow of the world of love and death. The girl is sensitively portrayed by an actress named Elisa Daniel, who resembles the young Ingrid Bergman. Leopoldo Torre Nilsson's flawless direction enables the film to suggest meanings and impressions far larger than the simple story being told, and this is one of the first marks of a good work of art.

One further asset — and this is not meant facetiously — is that the film runs only an hour and 15 minutes, a high virtue in these days when Hollywood seems to be considering anything taking

Marcel Marceau Coming

Marcel Marceau, often described as the world's greatest living pantomimist, will give two performances in Princeton on Monday, December 12. The matinee performance at 3:30 will be limited to school personnel, including all high schools and colleges in the area.

The performance will be part of a tour the French artist is making following his record-breaking run this Fall at the New York City Center. Included in the program will be his noted new "Bip" sketches, as well as two more familiar works, "Youth, Maturity, Old Age and Death" and "The Public Garden."

Tickets for both performances can be reserved by calling the McCarter Theatre box office, WA 1-8700 or by writing Box 526, Princeton.

less than three and a half hours to be a short subject. Recommended.

Il Trovatore (November 14) is this week's entry in the Garden's Monday Grand Opera Festival Series. The Verdi score is sung by Enzo Mascherini and Gianna Calderini. The program also features the nvertures from Strass' "Blue Danube" and Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony."

School for Scoundrels (November 15-19), subtitled "How to Win Without Actually Cheating," is based on Stephen Potter's curiously funny series of books: "Gemeinschaft," "Life in a Ship," "One-up-manship," etc., and it never quite succeeds, perhaps this is because there is only the barest of plots (no more than an ephemeral vehicle for a string of incidents), or it may be that the basic idea is neither funny nor substantial enough to hold together a full-length film.

The acting is done by the experienced and immensely capable Boulting Brothers house company: Terry-Thomas, Alexander Sims, Ian Carmichael (our favorite) and Janette Scott. The story concerns Carmichael, a rich but bumbling young executive who attend's Potter's College of Life-manship to learn how to be one-up on his adversaries. When the methods are used unconvincingly (buying a searing jelly and convincing a sports-car-huff rival that it's the best car in the world, or showing up for a tennis game in street clothes to confuse the opponent) the film is likable, if not overpoweringly witty; when Potter's methods are turned toward the pursuit of Miss Scott, however, it becomes leeringly unpleasant and adolescent. The truest comic touch in the whole picture has nothing to do with the theme, but is found in a delightful bit of business with the musical score at the very end.

43 Moran Avenue, returned to duty after two stitches were used to close a slight cut in his chin. Police said the accident happened shortly after midnight when Mr. Bertram pulled away from the foot of Vandewater directly into the path of the speeding patrol car which was responding to a call for help. He was issued a summons for failing to yield the right of way to an emergency vehicle. Both cars were extensively damaged and Borough Chief Raymond A. Mondone reported it would cost more to repair the damaged patrol car than it would to replace it.

The police were responding to a call on Quarry Street where Mrs. Cornelia Gillette had been stabbed twice with a pen knife and was bleeding profusely. The alleged knife wielder was Lee Broadway, of 12 Birch Avenue.

Mrs. Gillette was taken to Princeton Hospital by a Township patrol car with two knife wounds in the upper stomach. Two sutures were administered to each wound and she was released. Charges of disorderly conduct will be lodged against each, police said.

The Post firing squad and colors, under the command of James Whitlow and Harold Hinkson Jr., will lead the procession of Legionnaires.

Ernest F. Drake, the Post's oldest active member, will place a memorial wreath at the base of the monument. The chaplain of the Post, Dr. William Tucker, will give the benediction and Robert C. Schmidt will sound taps. Commander Frank has urged all Legionnaires to attend the service. He also requests all citizens to show their respect for their country by displaying the American flag.

UNITED FUNDS HITS 80%

$187,197 raised. The Princeton United Community Fund has achieved 80 percent of its goal of $235,000, according to the weekly announcement made by the headquarters of the fund campaign.

In the Research Division, with five firms unaccounted for so far, fund raisers have collected $14,446, a 25 percent increase over 1958. In the Business Division, $35,829 has been raised and $15,000 remains to be turned in. Jack Yeoman, chairman, estimates a 15 percent increase in the final division report.

Hercules Powder, soliciting its employees for the first time, reports a total of $1250, which is an average of $12 per employee. Gallup and Robinson has announced a $230 total, an average of $10 per person.

At Westminster Choir College, the average gift is $17 for a total of $630. The Princeton Public Library has a 200 percent increase over last year. The breakdown is $100, or $12 average per employee.

The chairman of the Special Gifts Division, Frank Taplin, reports a total so far of $85,475, with a $15,300 potential, yet to be reported. Princeton University reports $11,702. Last year's total for the University was $19,000.

The Neighborhood Division, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Perry Clark and Mrs. Alan Carrick, shows a return of $12,550, which is half of the quota for this division.

which is due in its final form next June. John J. McKenna, Jr., assistant superintendent of schools and chairman of the committee, outlined to the Board various points on which committee members have already reached agreement. For example, one of the features of the plan is that education is to be continued after the fourth year of service.

Dr. McKenna reported on three research projects which are under way at Township Schools under the direction of private individuals. Mrs. Ruth Nishimura, in attendance, has her doctoral thesis at Rutgers, Dr. R. H. Gagne and Walter Dick of Princeton are in investigating motivational factors with some semi-entire-grade children on basic algebra programmed for a teaching manual. Dr. Julia Webber Gordon of the Office of Child and Youth Study of the state Department of Education is conducting research on the moral values of children.

In other business, Mrs. Carol H. Tice was appointed to the teaching staff, to begin work on January 3. Resignation of Mrs. Barbara Perna was accepted. The Board decided to become a member of the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce.

WHAT'S ON THE AGENDA?
For Borough Council. Because the regular Borough Council meeting date fell on Election Day, Council will meet instead this Thursday at 8 p.m. to consider various ordinances and recommendations.

Public hearings will be held on two ordinances, one amending the traffic and parking ordinance and one amending the parking meter ordinance. Council will also act on the proposed power substation on Charlton Street, a question referred by the Zoning Board of Adjustment.

The Federal government requires each year a statement of policy and answers to many questions concerning urban renewal, and Council will act on this "Workable Program" at its meeting.

In addition, Councilmembers will consider the acceptance of Scott

Lane and the portion of Spruce Lane at the foot of Scott Lane, and will act on the recommendations for two new police recruits.

An ordinance limiting the weight of commercial vehicles on Washington Road may be introduced at this meeting.

Mayor and Council have also discussed a request from Township Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman for a joint meeting of Council and Township Committee in November to discuss matters of mutual concern. Council also has on its docket a request from the Rescue Squad for a new building, a discussion with Chamber of Commerce committee on off-street parking proposals, and an alleged alcoholic beverage violation.

UNICEF GOAL TOPPED
In Halloween Drive. Over 600

Princeton children and teenagers collected $212.71 for UNICEF on Halloween. The community goal was $180.

Mrs. Wendell Smith, who directed the teenagers in the drive, reported that 400 participated, collecting some $180. The younger children, 12 and under, who had not been expected to take part in the drive, became interested nonetheless. More than 200 of them, directed by Mrs. Evelyn Saldick, collected $121.71. Next year, the tots and teenagers will join forces.

Three adult groups collected an additional $145 for UNICEF in a two-day drive selling Christmas cards. They are the American Association of University Women, the Soroptimist Club of Princeton, and the Woman's International League for Peace and Freedom.

TWO DOLLARS ON SUZIE Q IN THE FIFTH: Whether or not one should lawfully be able to go to a betting parlor on Nassau Street and place $2 on a horse running at Garden State Park is a question on which Elmer Wermuth (left) and Alexander Nechtscheret disagree. The pros and cons of legalized gambling are taken up by others below. (Staff Photo.)

Question of the Week

Question: Should gambling be legalized in this country?
Where asked: Around town.

Elmer Wermuth, 9 Titus Avenue, Lawrenceville, insurance representative: No, they'd make a bigger racket out of it than it is now. The only result would be more money for the government to wallow in. Legalized gambling would mean a raise in taxes because they'd have to have an army of salaried men to make sure it was regulated properly. It won't stop the bookies and the little crooks from operating.

Alexander Nechtscheret, Brunswick Pike, tree surgeon: It might be a good idea. People are going to gamble one way or another anyway, so why not make it legal? That way there would be tighter controls. The state and federal government would also benefit from this move, I believe, in the form of taxes.

Mrs. Joseph Caplan, 212 Hawthorne Avenue, housewife: It should not. I am against gambling of any kind, any time, any where. The last thing I would want to see is to have it legalized.

J. L. Benson, Great Road, professor: Personally I don't think it is a good thing but I feel it probably conforms to human nature; it is best to regulate it rather than suppress it. People are going to gamble regardless, so you might as well let the government get something out of it.

Mrs. Glorin Heywood, 163 Nassau Street, housewife: Yes, because if anything is legal it's not carried to excess. It also adds revenue to the state, painlessly.

Peter Palmer, 20 Moore Street, graduate student in electrical engineering: Yes, I think it should. I feel if it were legalized, money spent in it would be put to use by the government rather than going to gangsters. I also think it would cut down on organized crime. That would be my main reason for supporting it.

Mrs. Dorothy Bradshaw, 47 Locust Lane, housewife: No, I would rather see each individual state decide this rather than have the central government have total control.

Harry Kinosh, Green Avenue, Lawrenceville, golf pro: No. There really is enough legalized gambling available, such as the race tracks, for those who want to gamble. I believe the large percentage of gamblers are the poorer people and if gambling were legalized and made easier for them, they would gamble all the more.

Mrs. Joseph Dresner, 185 Clover Lane, housewife: If legalized gambling would put an end to the crime syndicates, or if it would reduce their influence, I believe this would be quite useful in reducing the corrupting influence of uncontrolled gambling. I think people are mature enough to know if they want to spend their money on gambling or not. Even though I feel it is perhaps not the most palatable form of collecting revenue, it is a system that is used abroad and has not shaken faith in citizens in the morality of their government. We know gambling exists: we can't shut our eyes to it. I say let it be out in the open rather than behind closed doors and perhaps people will gamble less.

Norman Hukowitz, 228-D Harrison Street, instructor at Princeton University: I feel it should be legalized. Seems to me that people are going to gamble in one form or another. If you legalize it, at least you are enabling the government to get some of the money to use, we hope, for useful purposes.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gray, 175 Nassau Street, hostess for beauty salon: I think it should. Other countries get the benefit of it and we don't. Why shouldn't we have sweepstakes and lotteries like other countries. It would bring money into the Borough.

James Bailett, 33 Ward Avenue, Trenton, bookkeeper: I think that numbers and things like that are considered to be on the shady side and if you legalize it, you are giving it a certain amount of respectability. Many people, especially the ones who really can't afford to gamble, won't recognize it for what it is and will fall for this curtain of respectability and gamble their money away when they should be saving it for their children's education or for medical bills.

Mrs. Edward Orlovsky, 160 Spruce Street, housewife: I think since there is always going to be a certain amount of gambling going on, we might as well reap the tax benefits. If it is legalized, I am assuming it will be taxed. Edmund Cole, 70 Pine Street, bartender: Yes, I believe so. We would gain a lot of revenue from it. I think most people like to gamble a lot anyway, so why not make it easier for them.

Mrs. Norman Fielding, Franklin Park, housewife: I am sure there is plenty of it going on and if they legalized it, it would be a source of revenue. It might do away with the underground element of gambling. Constitutional, I think it would have to be a state thing rather than a national measure.

Report from THE MAYOR

Good News. Another Borough-Township cooperative project seems to be heading toward approval. As previously reported, our Engineering Department helped to work out identical applications for state aid for the construction of Walnut Lane near the High School. Arthur Brokaw suggested that the Mayor write the Highway Department to explain the importance of the project and to prevent any possible confusion over two municipalities submitting the "same" project. The reply from State Highway Commissioner Dwight R.G. Palmer was prompt and helpful.

He has a report from the chief of his municipal aid section which indicates that "An allotment of $12,500 each to Princeton Township and to Princeton Borough will be included" in his recommendations for 1961. Commissioner Palmer's one-line editorial: "This, I believe and hope, solves your situation." It does.

Safety. Encore. Police Chief Mondone and the Mayor had a safety "doubleheader" on Monday, attending meetings of the Mercer County Safety Committee and our own Borough Safety Committee under Magistrate Tama's chairmanship. The Mercer meeting ended after two hours with one of Princeton's main concerns being the high point on the agenda.

The so-called "realistic speed limits"—the kind that would raise the Mercer Street limits as requested by the Bureau of Traffic Safety.—found defenders among traffic engineers whose main arguments seemed weighed in favor of expediting the flow of motor vehicles. The opponents, including the Princeton contingent, seemed more inclined to worry about pedestrian safety and about the character of residential neighborhoods.

As for the Mercer Street recommendations, it appears that the matter will be resolved in a forthcoming conference between the Mayor and Director Ned J. Parshian of the Division of Motor Vehicles. State-wide interest has been stirred up by Princeton Borough's stand on this. Here at home, more comments reached the Mayor is support of the "passive resistance" to higher speed limits than on any other municipal activity in the past three years.

Other items. Meanwhile, the Borough safety committee has again turned its attention to the unfinished business of a number of safety recommendations affecting Washington Road. Also under intensive study is the section of Bayard Lane near Hedge Road and Avalon Place.

About 206A. Meeting last Tuesday with its consultant planner, the Borough Planning Board spent considerable time in discussing next steps in relation to the proposed 206A by-pass.

The Board still believes this is the highest priority planning item for Princeton and a sub-committee of the Board is doing some further exploratory work between regular planning meetings. They will be encouraged by the action of the County Board of Freeholders in endorsing the project. It also seems likely that public hearings will be held on a proposed route before the end of the year.

Advisory Committee. Dodd McHugh, our consultant planner, suggested on Tuesday that his fact-finding had reached the point where it would now be fruitful to have a small committee of citizens appointed to work in an advisory capacity with the planning board in shaping the recommendations and in helping to interpret the new master plan which, when developed, will be presented for public hearing. Such a committee, to be appointed by the Mayor, is made possible under a State law of 1953. It is hoped that a representative group of perhaps ten persons would be chosen to serve in this capacity.

"Tell It to the Mayor!" The regular weekly open house sessions will be held at Borough Hall from 7 to 10 p.m. on Friday, November 11; Friday, November 18; and Wednesday, November 23. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings. On last week's calendar: an address to Princeton Rotary, accompanied by the four candidates for Borough Council, on the theme of service through participation in local government. On Thursday, Princeton was host to more than 125 chiefs of police from Jersey municipalities who enjoyed their visit so much that many have expressed the hope that the chiefs' association might meet here regularly.

BROWN'S SCULPTURE SHOWN

"This Month at Yale. A one-man "Mobile Exhibition of Sculpture" by Joseph Brown, associate professor of sculpture and boxing coach at Princeton University, will be on exhibit through November 25 at Yale University's Payne Whitney Gymnasium.

The exhibit includes 110 pieces done by Mr. Brown since 1933. They range in size from three inches to nine feet and in price from $35 to $12,000. The majority are small bronzes of athletes in action, which have been suspended from wires rather than displayed conventionally on fixed pedestals.

This is the third time Mr. Brown's work has been exhibited at Yale. The other two shows, both held in connection with Olympic years, were in 1952 and 1956. In all his exhibits Mr. Brown has shown a variety of sports in addition to boxing, such as football, hockey, baseball, squash, swimming, track and fencing.

Next February Mr. Brown will be sent on a good will tour by the State Department to do statues of great athletes in Japan, Thailand, Indonesia, Burma and Europe.

Are you afraid to drive a "tiny" car?

"I don't blame you!

In a world of big cars and trucks, a tiny car demands a stout heart. They may fit fine on European roads where every other car and truck is scaled down in size. But here in America you have to be really adventurous to drive a "tiny" car.

This is one good reason why you should consider the new Buick SPECIAL. It is a smaller car than its big brother Buicks, but not tiny. It is big enough to be SEEN, but small enough to handle easily. It is ideal for the little woman to drive.

Just because it is smaller, doesn't mean the Buick SPECIAL is missing out on big car comfort. No rocky-road-rolling ride for you in a SPECIAL. You ride almost as well as in the big Buicks.

The Buick SPECIAL has a totally new, all aluminum motor which because it is much lighter in weight for power produced, exceeds the performance of any other similar car. You save on gas.

The Buick SPECIAL is all Buick, even the name. It has the big advantage of local service and American parts. If trouble arises there's no waiting for replacement parts to be shipped across the Atlantic. Usually we take it right out of our parts stock room. This can mean uninterrupted driving for you, lower costs too.

I can't tell you all the things about the new Buick SPECIAL you'll find when you see and drive it. I think you'll agree it is a really fine product, easy to drive and economical to run. And it bears the Buick name, your guarantee of fine car workmanship.

All I ask is that you give me fifteen minutes of your time to test and try this amazing new car. After you try it you will be the sole judge and jury. I want you to try this car. You are not obligated to buy. How about today?"

CHOIR JOINS SYMPHONY

For Concert Monday Evening, The Westminster Choir will join the Princeton Symphony Orchestra for its first concert of the season to be held Monday evening in Mc-Carter Theatre. The concert, which marks the beginning of the symphony's 10th anniversary season, will be dedicated to the memory of Dr. Charles R. Erdman, founder and former president of the Princeton Symphony.

The opening work on the program will be in tribute to Dr. Erdman. It will be the chorale, "O Haupt voll Blut und Wunden," by J. S. Bach, which will be sung by the choir accompanied by the orchestra. The choir will be under the direction of Warren Martin, musical director of Westminster Choir College.

Main features of the program will be two works by Beethoven, "Fantasy for Piano, Chorus and Orchestra," Op. 80 and "Mass in C," Op. 86.

Piano soloist for the "Fantasy for Piano, Chorus and Orchestra" will be Professor Edward C. Cone of the Department of Music at Princeton University, pianist and composer. Vocal soloists in the "Mass in C" will be Marcha Morris, soprano; Barbara Hibish, alto; Clarence Moore, tenor, and Charles Read, bass, all graduates of Westminster Choir College.

This will be the first of four concerts to be given this year by the Princeton Symphony. The others are scheduled for February 20, March 27 and May 7. Individual tickets are sold at the University Store. For series tickets, call Mrs. Dorothy K. Couchman at WALnut 4-2228.

Officers are: Robert Casadesu, honorary vice president; Malcolm Peyton executive vice president; Dr. Rudolf A. Cremen, vice president; J. Burwell Harrison, treasurer, and RECITALIST: Ralph H. Fox, professor of mathematics at Princeton University, will give a piano concert Sunday in Clio Hall.

MASS IN C SOLOISTS: Flanking conductor Nicholas Maranyani center are members of the Westminster Choir who will be soloists in Beethoven's Mass in C. They are Clarence Moore, Martha Morris, Barbara Hibish and Charles Read. The program will be given at Mc-Carter Theatre Monday evening at 8:30. (Staff Photo).

Mrs. Gibson Dailey, secretary. Wayne Abernethy has been appointed business manager. Mrs. Dorothy K. Couchman is executive secretary.

CELLO RECITAL DELIGHTS

Pierre Fournier Plays. On Monday night Pierre Fournier once again demonstrated his absolute mastery of the cello and its literature (in a program of works by Vivaldi, Bach, Beethoven, Schumann, Tchaikowsky — and as encores, Albeniz and Weber). M. Fournier is not only a flawless instrumentalist of the first rank, but a musician with rare taste, understanding, and insight.

M. Fournier's technical prowess — astonishing as it is — always remains the servant of a highly artistic intent; it is never an end in itself. In fact, he consistently turns the problems posed by the nature of his instrument (such as the inherent difference in tone color of its several strings) to the advantage of the music. M. Fournier, by sensitive adjustment of his bow position, can cross strings with almost no perceptible difference in color — he can also emphasize such a difference in tonal characteristics to throw a certain phrase or note into greater relief when it serves the purposes of the music.

This in the Beethoven "Sonata in C major, Op. 102, No. 1" — one of this master's most original compositions, and perhaps the first of his "late period" (being composed before the Op. 101 piano sonata) — M. Fournier was able to intensify the dramatic contrasts and subtle nuances which are the very heart of this great work. And in such moments of the Bach "Suite No. 3 in C major" as the sarabande, he was able to project a multi-voiced (rather than a solo) texture, by these same means.

If the opening Vivaldi concerto (a transcription) — but in this case the precedent was set by no less a figure than J.S. Bach, who transcribed it for the harpsichord) and the Tchaikowsky "Variations on a Roccoco Theme" (to this reviewer a hackneyed and pedestrian work) were of less musical significance, it must nonetheless be said that M. Fournier played them very nimbly. His performance of the Schumann "Fantasy Pieces" was a revelation; after hearing the essential "appassionato" and lyrical characteristics of these pieces so vividly projected, one doubts that the more familiar chorale version could ever sound as convincing.

In the past, M. Fournier's American tours have sometimes been plagued by inferior accompanists — such was not the case at this concert. Leonard Hambro's playing exhibited fine co-operation with the soloist, although he sometimes had a tendency to underplay.

There is little more that one can say. M. Fournier's playing includes all the finest qualities of a great performing artist: it is technically impeccable, it is eloquent, and it is of great understanding. Princeton audiences are unlikely to hear such performances again — until Pierre Fournier returns.

FOX TO GIVE RECITAL

Sunday in Clio Hall. Ralph H. Fox, professor of mathematics at Princeton University, will give a piano recital of classical and contemporary music Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in Clio Hall Auditorium. The concert is open to the public free of charge.

This will be the third such concert given here by Professor Fox. His previous Princeton recitals were presented in 1954 and 1959. The program will range from "Partita in G Major, No. 5" by J. S. Bach to "Prelude, Opus 24, No. 1" (1949) by Furtin Valen. Other works will include "Sonatina No. 1" (1949) by Anis Fulei, "Prelude and Fugue, Opus 87, No. 16" (1951) by Dmitri Shostakovich, and "Short Piano Pieces" (1951) by Erich Korngold.

IN CHORUS TO SING

In Handel Works. Thomas Scherman, his Little Orchestra Society of New York and the Choral Art Society will present a concert of oratorio, "Judas Macabaeus," Saturday at 8:30 in Dillon Gymnasium on the University campus. The presentation, which is being brought to Princeton by C. K. Productions, will feature as soloists John McCollum, Russell Oberlin, Ara Berberian and Irene Jordan.

Thomas Scherman has been described as "one of the most original and stimulating of America's podium musicians." He has presented in premiere performance almost 50 contemporary orchestral works, and innumerable revivals from the works of Berlioz, Bach and Haydn. He has received the Medal of Honor of the National Arts Club of "contributing most to music in the New York area."

Mr. McCollum, who will sing the leading tenor role, appeared frequently under the baton of the late Dmitri Mitropoulos and sang at the Stratford Ontario Shakespeare Festival in "Orpheus in the Underworld." Miss Jordan recently won a Ford Foundation grant as an artist who contributed to the "richness and variety of America's musical resources at their highest level." Mr. Oberlin is known for his rare countertenor and has made frequent appearances. —Continued on Page 32

Kennedy's Peace Corps Backed.
To The Editor of Town Topics:
Senator Kennedy's proposal for a volunteer Peace Corps as an alternative to the selective service represents a genuine challenge to all people who say they are for "Peace in the World." The possibilities for gain in enlightened attitudes on how to achieve durable relationships among people and nations are boundless. Moreover, the Peace Corps would offer a choice and an opportunity to our young people to get out and work for the high ideals that are rampant among adolescents.

Just the idea of not donning a uniform and giving a portion of your life to a military organization but rather training and concretely working for the cause of Peace would be worth all the effort needed to handle this kind of a program. Certainly the details remain to be delineated but the idea's the thing.

If there is anyone who'd like to voice support for this proposal, I call me at WA 4-658 and I will push it onward. I've already sent a telegram to Mrs. Kennedy commending the proposal.

Letter of Thanks

To The Editor of Town Topics:

I wish it were possible for me to write to the hundreds of individuals, the leaders in organizations, schools and churches who have joined hands with a fine spirit of cooperation and volunteer endeavor to make Princeton's observance of U. N. Week so successful. I appreciate, however, this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to all those who have dedicated their knowledge, time, talents and money in support of this worthy community project.

Especially I want to thank the hard-working, untiring members of the large Citizens' Committee, the many sub-committee members, the participating groups, merchants and advertisers, business sponsors, patrons, listed and unlisted guests, and anonymous friends of Princeton who contributed in promoting the observance.

The outstanding news and editorial coverage by your paper; the broadcasting services of WPTZ, the many fine speakers provided for organizations by the United Nations Speakers Bureau, the generous assistance of U. N. personnel, the American Association for the U. N., the large number of volunteer local speakers who gave of their abilities so selflessly, were a large factor in the success of this enterprise.

The University, which granted the use of its facilities for the major events, the Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. and Westminster Choir college where numerous committee meetings were held; the women and young people who assisted in providing refreshments for receptions; the groups that sponsored special breakfasts, luncheons, teas and dinners where Princeton citizens of all creeds, races and cultures intermingled all of these cooperative organizations, institutions and individuals contributed immeasurably and merit our grateful commendation.

I salute other fine people of our community: students, professors, writers, workers and residents who took advantage of this occasion to interpret a warm spirit of brotherhood to those living on our unique town as international guests and scholars. The heartwarming hospitality of many Princeton homes where the distinguished U. N. visitors were entertained, gave to these guests a new understanding of democracy at work, of the U. N. in action, in Princeton. One visitor expressed for them all the mutual reaction: "Here we found friends, for the first time in America, a desire for understanding."

A special word of tribute is in order for the fine support of Mayor and Mrs. Male, who offered themselves so completely in the interest of the whole observance, particularly in guiding the affairs of hospitality and protocol.

Throughout the entire observance there has been felt a deep conviction that we who live in Princeton have begun to think and act for peace. We have conveyed a strong faith in the purposes of the United Nations as a world organization. Even though this particular community effort is only a beginning, I am confident that there has come to Princeton a new united concern and interest in the United Nations and a desire to support it. Plans for the continuance of our U. N. concern on a more permanent basis will be announced in the near future.

Democrats Depend On GOP?
To The Editor of Town Topics:
Referring to the report in TOWN TOPICS that about 75 per cent of the Princeton University faculty would vote Democratic whereas approximately an equal percent of the student body would vote Republican, it has always been very interesting that consistently the theorists who teach are for the Democratic ideal, but depend for their very livelihood upon people of Republican ideals who have learned these theories DO NOT work in the everyday job of earning a living and developing initiative.

The Course to True Peace.

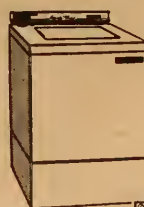

To The Editor of Town Topics:

At the recent Peace Workshop at the Woodrow Wilson School, several people advocated enforceable world law as the most important United States objective for the United Nations. Several panelists, while not arguing against the essentiality of this goal in the long run, stated that technical assistance through the U.N. is a more urgent goal, and that we shouldn't "rock the boat" by simultaneously seeking the rule of law through the United Nations.

I for one wholeheartedly endorse the idea of channeling our economic and technical aid through the U.N., and of increasing the aid to Africa, South America and Asia substantially. But why should this important objective clash with the advocacy of the fundamentally strengthened U.N. which must be achieved one day if mankind's survival is to be assured?

This nation is currently spending approximately 60 cents per capita on the United Nations and roughly $230 per capita on the arms race. A program of effective economic aid through the U.N. might increase the former figure to $3, $4 or $5 per capita, and, to repeat, I am 100 percent for it.

A program to prepare a U.S. position on U.N. Charter review, and to exchange ideas with other nations leading to the holding of such a conference, might involve the expenditure of 1 cent per capita. The holding of such a conference is not subject to the veto, nor would it upset the functioning of the U.N., any more than the conference to achieve peace in Korea, or the current effort to achieve an enforceable ban on testing atomic bombs. A U.N. Charter review conference should encompass disarmament efforts, because, although not yet widely admitted, enforceable world-wide disarmament cannot be achieved in the absence of world law.

In summation, every national and world leader to the left of Barry Goldwater) recognizes the need for a strengthened United Nations, and that meaningful world peace must be based on the rule of law. Nehru was the latest world leader to acknowledge the need of changes in the U.N. Charter if it is to be able to secure the peace permanently. Yet political scientists are so loath to act on this fundamental need! Do they think the world will one day achieve itself?

During World War II, our scientists and military leaders did not say we would "rock the boat" by pushing the Manhattan Project to perfect the atomic bomb at the same time we fought the war. So why can't we advocate the true requirements of a just and lasting world peace at the same time as we prosecute the cold war? How much less costly than the Manhattan Project, and how much more fruitful it could be for the future of mankind!

QUALITY WORKMANSHIP AT COMPETITIVE PRICES

What does it mean to be rated?

Not long ago men and women with coronary artery disease, tuberculosis or diabetes were unable to obtain life insurance. Today it is possible for many of these people to be accepted in a special premium classification. Technically speaking they are said to be "rated" policyholders. For many years Manufacturers Life has contributed leadership in this special field. Today we are well known for our progressive outlook and for the favorable premium rates being offered.

Actually 90% of the people applying for Manufacturers Life policies today are accepted at regular rates. Another 8% are offered insurance at the lowest possible cost considering their particular physical condition, while only 1 1/2% are declined. Whatever your needs, you can be sure of progressive life insurance service when you call the Man from Manufacturers.

YALE LIES AHEAD

And Probably Trouble, Too. Although the Ivy League title will not be decided in final fashion until the afternoon of November 19, there is scant reason to doubt that the winner will be the team which emerges the victor from this Saturday's football game in the Yale Bowl. Carrying identical 5-0 league records into the contest, Princeton and Yale will take dead aim on the championship that Pennsylvania has already relinquished by virtue of its second-division standing.

The kickoff is set for 1:30, with a crowd that will run upwards of 50,000 on hand for the proceedings. Princetonians staying at home may hear the game on WAUC, New York; WIP, Philadelphia; KNSD, Newark; WBUP, Trenton; or the University radio station, WPRB-FM.

Off its overall unbeaten record and its tough defense, Yale is a clear-cut favorite to become the first Ivy team to win the title twice since the league became formal in 1956. The Bulldogs took the crown that year; Princeton, having won in 1957, is also in a position to become the first two-time champion, but so are Orange and Black victory will be an upset.

Favoring Yale are these factors:

- A rugged, veteran line that will outweigh Princeton by nearly 15 pounds to the man—one that has been largely responsible for a total yield of 46 points in seven games. Only Colgate of the Elis' opponents to date has scored more than one touchdown in a game Yale won, 36 to 11.

- Ability to play possession football, a rarity among 7 teams. With quarterback Tom Singleton and fullback Bob Blanchard the principal ball carriers, the Elis grind out three and four yards at a clip, balancing a solid attack with a tough defense. The Blue can explode for long gainers, but its possession-type attack has been a feature of its success this season.

- Continued inability on Princeton's part to produce a first-rate defense. The Tigers' last four opponents, none of them a good team with the exception of Harvard, have averaged three touchdowns apiece. If Yale does no better, Princeton will have to score four times to win an achievement that is somewhat unlikely against the rugged defense the Elis have consistently demonstrated.

Seniors Dominick Elis, in contrast to Princeton, which will start seven seniors, two juniors and two sophomores, Yale has a veteran eleven composed of nine seniors and two juniors. From tackle to tackle, the Blue line averages 211, with guard Ben Balne (215) and Captain Mike Pyle, 233-lb., tackle, the standouts.

Tom Singleton, 200-lb. quarterback, is a line triple-threat, while Blanchard has been called by Coach Jordan Oliver "the best fullback in my eight years at New Haven." Lou Muller and Ken Wolfe, the starting halfbacks, are used primarily for blocking purposes but know what to do with the ball if they get it.

Yale will operate out of a tight T that often uses flanks to vary its offense. Singleton is adept at the "helly series," an attack that provides good deception and change of pace. Last year, he was a big factor in the 38-20 conquest of the Tigers in Palmer Stadium, averting an attack that chewed up the Princeton defense for a total of 363 yards.

Princeton's defensive difficulties are underscored by the cold fact that all of its last four opponents have scored more against the Tigers than they have in any of the five games leading up to their meeting with the Orange and Black. Consistent inability to break up long pass plays, at the time when even the last ticket-taker in the Stadium knows they are coming, is another weakness that may cost the Tigers heavily this weekend.

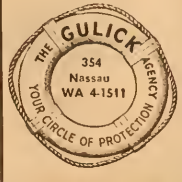

Harvard Barely Beaten. Although a 11-11 tie was the best Harvard could have achieved in the final quarter at Palmer Stadium Saturday, Princeton very nearly fell victim to the deadlock that would have been a distinct upset. The Crimson was without the services of Captain Terry Leuter, a good guard, and quarterback Charlie Ravenel; their presence would in all probability have swung victory to the visitors.

In achieving the 14-12 triumph, the Tigers won while looking ahead to Yale. No other reason can be found for the faulty blocking, the poor tackling and the fact that Harvard's line consistently outcharged the home team.

Yielding identical totals of 150 yards running and passing, Princeton was outgained for the first time while it has been compiling its string of five straight triumphs. The Tigers picked up 182 yards on the ground but only 66 in the air for a 25-yard total against the Crimson's 300.

The victors never trailed, but the touchdowns they gave up just before the end of each half very nearly cost them the ball game. After a scoreless first period, during which neither team got

JIMMY REED
Princeton Soccer Coach

In a close game — or a tight league — the best defense is the best to win. In the Ivy Soccer League this fall, Princeton's tough-to-dent defense was the major factor in the Tigers' ability to wrap up the championship before the season ended.

A 1-0 victory over Harvard, defending titleholder, on Fox Field last Saturday put the crown firmly on the Tiger's head. As had been the case on two other occasions this year, the Orange and Black hooters made the only goal stand up to tell the difference.

In charge of Princeton soccer for the 26th season is genial, energetic Jimmy Reed, whose arrival on the Nassau scene in the far off fall of 1929 makes him the dean of Tiger coaches by many years. Reed came here as an assistant in both soccer and wrestling, was advanced to head man in both sports shortly thereafter and in 1939 took on the added responsibility of Intramural Athletic Director.

At the outset of the 1960 season, Princeton's prospects — after second-place finishes in 1958 and '59 — were tabbed as

"strong offensively, with a shot 'n' the title depending on development of the defense."

After a 4-2 overtime loss to Cornell in the non-league opener, Reed's steadily-improving operatives racked up the first of four shutouts with a 5-0 whitewash of Columbia.

When a 4-3 conquest of Penn, perennial Princeton nemesis, followed, championship hopes seemed justified. No other Ivy opponent made more than a single goal against the Tigers, with Cornell joining Harvard, Columbia and non-Ivy Swarthmore as shutout victims.

A steady stream of assignments Reed has accepted at the national collegiate, Pan American and Olympic level testify to his popularity and ability as a coach. The 57-year old Lehigh graduate, a three-year letterman in both his sports while an undergraduate, was also tapped three years ago for soccer instruction to American Army teams based in Germany.

The Yale game (and Big Three title) are on Saturday's schedule for the soccer team, with victory setting the 1960 record at a fine 2-1 mark. It's been a fine season for Jimmy Reed, whose players consistently showed the effect of true coaching ability.

within the opposition's 30-yard line. Princeton put a drive in motion following a poor punt by Bruce MacIntyre that went out on the Harvard 43. Nine plays did the trick. Eight of them were routine, out the last was an unusually picturesque catch by sophomore end Barry Schuman that produced the TD. From a fourth and three situation on the seven, wingback Mike Iseman threw the reverse pass, his aim taking the ball behind the receiver's back as he was running laterally in the end zone.

Schuman spun and grabbed the ball as he fell, retaining possession. That and some solid defensive play won him "lineman of the day" honors, as well as a place on the weekly All-East team.

Harvard struck back with 43 seconds on the clock, quarterback Terry Bartolot connecting in the end zone on a 28-yard pass to Tom Boone. The latter wrestled the ball away from Brewster Loud for six points, but an attempted pass that would have meant an 8-7 lead at the intermission was batted down.

A scoreless third period, during which lost fumbles hobbled the attack of both teams, was marked by the start of a 75-yard drive by the Tigers that eventually brought a touchdown. With the first team benched for its sub-par effort, the reserves chopped up Harvard's defense in steady fashion, Hugh Scott or Brewster Loud putting every play in motion for the final 50 yards.

It was Loud who wedged twice from the three for the score, and it was sophomore Dave Gouldin whose post-splitting conversion for the second time provided the Harvard margin of victory. There were less than ten minutes left, but the Crimson made it close, rolling 85 yards on two long passes.

es that created the 14-12 final. Tackle John Craig's deflection of the attempted aerial for a two-point conversion meant the difference between a narrow victory and an unwelcome tie.

Some 36,000 were on hand for the occasion, with gray skies and a fourth-quarter drizzle marring the setting somewhat. The crowd, largest of the post-war Harvard-Princeton series, saw the second straight victory for the Tigers in Palmer Stadium by points-after-touchdown. The Orange and Black having won two years ago, 18-14.

Good Record at New Haven. Only once in the last 12 years has Princeton been beaten in the Yale Bowl, its most recent effort there meeting with success to the tune of 50 to 14. Coach Jordan Oliver was bitter after that contest, berating the Tiger coaching staff for running up the score and will seek to do the same if he has the chance.

Odds are that a rout of Princeton is unlikely to occur, with the logical outcome a Yale victory by a touchdown or two. The Tigers, of course, will be aiming for the upset which could come with top-flight play plus a few good breaks.

HILL IS LAST BARRIER

To Undefeated Season. Lawrenceville will be gunning for its third straight undefeated football season this Saturday when it travels to Fottstown, Pa., to meet the Hill School. The Lawrentians are 6-0-1 for the current campaign and unbeaten in 20 games over a three-year span.

Captain Frank Bunch engineered victory number 19 last Saturday as Choate School succumbed by a 38-20 score. Bunch ran 35 yards for one Lawrenceville touchdown and passed to Chuck Miller for another on a play that covered 82 yards. Bunch also passed for three conversions, hitting Miller twice and Joe Worcester once.

PHS REACHES FINALE

Of Up and Down Season, One game remains for the Little Tigers of Princeton High School, who of late have found the gridiron trail to be a rocky one indeed. This final contest of a short seven-game schedule for PHS pits the Blue and White against Ewing High School with the kickoff scheduled for 2 o'clock Saturday in the Blue Devils' field.

Both teams have had their share of misfortune this fall and their records are almost identical. Princeton High, which lost to Long Branch Saturday, 22-13, is now 2-1 overall. In Moorestown over the weekend, 12-0, Ewing, which has played one more game than the Little Tigers, won its third for a 3-2 record.

The contest should prove to be as close as their records. Says PHS coach Joe Jingo, "It will be a tough ball game", adding, "none of them are easy—even the ones you win." One factor limiting Jingo's optimism is the knee injury whichback Alan Wood received early in the Long Branch defeat. A Wood-less Little Tiger eleven is vulnerable, for Woody, more than any other player, is the glue that holds the team together.

Last year, the season ended in a flurry for Princeton High. In the short span of 72 hours it first edged a favored Long Branch squad, 14-12, and then came from behind in the fourth period to conquer Ewing, 13-7, to wind up its season with a creditable 5-2-1 record and gain possession of the mythical Mercer County Crown. The winning TD came on a 71-yard gallop down the sidelines by this year's co-captain and ball-carrying work horse, Russ Perone.

TOTAL OFFENSE LEADER: Tiger tailback Hugh Scott leads PHS by league with a total of 622 yards gained running and passing.

This fall, unfortunately, there will be no Merrivell finish—Long Branch ruled that out—and there will be no Mercer County title—lopsided defeat to Trenton High and a 13-13 tie with Trenton Catholic exploded that hope. The only thing at stake Saturday for PHS is ability to end the season above the .500 mark.

A touchdown and a safety in the last few minutes by Long Branch put Saturday's game out of reach for the Little Tigers as the coastal eleven came from behind to beat visiting PHS, 22-13. "We won the first half and they won the ball game" is the way Jingo summed it up. The Blue and White led at halftime, 13-7.

PHS Takes Lead. The Little Tigers scored first, marching down field in the first quarter to take a 6-0 lead. Howard Gould's try for the extra point failed. On the drive, fullback Charlie Pemberton, who scored the TD, moved the ball consistently through the middle of the Green Wave line for good yardage. Helping Pemberton advance the ball were Perone and Wood. The home team came right back, however, 1:15 the same period to tie it up and take a one-point lead when it successfully converted the try for extra point. This slim margin didn't last long, as Perone and Gould collared to score Princeton High's second six-pointer, Gould going over for the tally. Gould also added the extra point to put his teammates in front at the half.

Wood Injured. Midway in the second quarter, Wood sustained an injury to his knee and was forced to sit out the remainder of game. "We really missed Woody," said Jingo. "We missed his blocking, his pass catching, and his defensive play." The absence of Wood, a rugged six-foot, 180-lb., "Iron man" who goes a full 60 minutes both ways for PHS and who was its top pass receiver, left both a physical and spiritual void that could not be filled.

If the visitors won the first half, the home team walked off with the second. Not only did the Branchers keep the volatile Perone in check but they limited the losers to just 14 plays from scrimmage in the entire half. "They just outplayed us," Jingo said of Long Branch which added a score in the third period and another TD and a safety in the final minutes to earn the victory.

MEN SHUTOUT VICTIM Of Pingry School. Three quarters of the way through its eight-game schedule, the Hun football team has logged three shutout victories and has, itself, been shut out twice and suffered an additional loss for a total of three defeats. Saturday, the Red and Black, in its last away game of the season, travels to Newtown, Pa., in hopes of getting back on the plus side again at the expense of George School.

Inability to connect on two of three attempted conversions after a TD cost George School a 25-20 loss Saturday at the hands of the Red Raiders of Pennington, who shutout Hun in its opener, 35-0. Hun coach Hawley Waterman, who scouted the George eleven over the weekend, said that "Hun would be bigger in both the line and the backfield" but added that while the George School aggregation would be lighter it was a "scrappy" team that always kept coming back. Last year, George School came from behind in the final quarter to upset Hun, 12-8.

In Elizabeth Saturday, Pingry scored once in the first and third quarters to beat Hun, 12-0 for its sixth win to remain unbeaten. Both TDs came on long runs. The winners ran the try for PAT following their first six-pointer and kicked the second to account for their total of 15.

Penalties Costly. Hun took the opening kickoff and rolled to the enemy 10 but the drive was halted by a costly 15-yard penalty. Two other drives in the first half also went awry as the result of penalties. In all, the Red and Black had 35 yards marched off against it in the first half alone. "We were caught clipping, tackling by the face masks—things we just shouldn't have been doing," lamented Waterman.

Also contributing to Hun's downfall were a number of in-Juries to key players. Most damaging was the shoulder injury sustained by halfback Gary Grover in the first period. For the remainder of the game Hun's air attack was grounded, as Grover is settled on to do most of the throwing for the Red and Black.

Also lost early in the game with a knee injury was Harland Johnson, second-string tackle moved up to replace starter Gary Savidge who was benched last week for the remainder of the season with a broken collar bone. Bob Kaplan, varsity guard, was out of action for the second half because of an injury and veteran center Pete Savidge was slowed down considerably when he twisted his ankle early in the contest. However, coach Waterman expects that these injuries will have tapered in time for the George School contest.

BOWLING NOTES

Industrial League tied. Tiger Garage and Fera Lab Supply were tied for first place in the Industrial League with 32 points each as the second race in the Princeton area showed no signs of let-up last week. Nassau Del was third with 30 points and Nassau Service (28) dropped from first to fourth by losing three games. The fifth place team, the Reformers (26), remained only three games out of first. In other Princeton bowling action, Walker Gordon had his lead cut to two games by Sportsmen No. 1 (38) in the "B" loop.

Another tight race began to shape up in the "A" League as Nelson Glass was on top with 34 points followed by Decker's Dairy (33), Kase Kleenex (32), Grover Lumber (31) and Shelton Motors No. 1 (30). In the Faculty Loop, Physics increased its margin to two games over second-place "C" Operations (28).

Amron Homes jumped from third place to the top spot in the Women's League to lead Nassau Boater (41) by half a game. Cranbury Bank was in the third position only two points behind the leaders. The Mixed League got under way on Sunday and the Toto team swept its opening series to go into first place. Rose and Zeccola, with four points each, were second, followed by Sculerati (2), Parke (2) and Bu-Beck (0).

Bill Battle posted the top individual score of the week with a 267 in the "B" loop. He added games of 178-193 for a 698 series. Other notable games included Jim Kahny, 224; Bill Murphy, 218; John Baldino, 214; George Sickle, 212; Tony Baldino, 203; and Dick

Each contestant rolls 12 frames, one ball per frame. The score is the actual number of pins knocked down with the requirement that the head pin must be hit and fall in order for the score to count. Entrance fee for each game is one dollar, of which 40 cents is contributed to the Children's Cancer Fund. The money will go toward the prize list.

Under the sanction of the New Jersey Bowling Proprietor's Association, some 122 bowling centers throughout the state are participating in the tournament. There are 40 cash prizes in each house which will be broken down into two weekly prizes, 29 position prizes and three women's awards. After the local tournaments end, the top scorers from each center will compete in a roll-off for the three grand prizes which include a 24-day trip to Europe for two, and runner-up awards of $1,000 and $500.

News Of The CHURCHES

GUTENBERG ON VIEW

From Scheide Collection. A 600-year-old Gutenberg Bible, one of three existing Gutenberg Bibles still in private hands, will be on display in Firestone Library on the University campus through Wednesday, November 30.

The Bible is on temporary loan from the personal library of William H. Scheide, 133 Library Place, who inherited it with the library of his father, John H. Scheide.

The Scheide copy, in two volumes, still in its original stamped leather binding is printed on paper (some of the existing commented copies are on vellum) and measures 11 3/4 by 16 inches. Five leaves are missing, but 12 others formerly missing have been replaced by original leaves.

Alternate volumes will be opened to different pages throughout the month to show not only the typography but the hand-colored red and blue initials at the beginnings of chapters, the decorated prologue pages and the illuminated initials at the beginning of each book. The openings will be confined to the middle third of each volume because it is hard on the spine of a heavy volume to open the book near the front or the back.

In addition to the Gutenberg Bible, other rare examples of early printing from Mr. Scheide's collection are on display. There is a section tracing the history of the Scheide Bible from its printing in Mainz to its arrival in Princeton 600 years later, and a collection of letters from the various antiquarians and booksellers who have handled the Bible since it was discovered about 1865 in Erfurt, Germany, in the archives of the Erfurt Prediger Kirche.

LIBERAL INSTITUTE SET

The institute, which will run from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. is open to all those interested. Mrs. Donald Marshall of the Unitarian Church is chairman.

Principal speaker will be Dr. Merrill E. Bush, headmaster of Friends Central School of Philadelphia and chairman of the Education Committee of the Council of Liberal Churches. His topic will be "What Kind of Religion for Your Child?"

Other speakers will include Mrs. Florence Klaber of the American Ethical Union and Mrs. A. Powell Davies, widow of the former minister of All Souls Unitarian Church in Washington, D.C.

Events of the day will include a panel on "Parent Relationships," a colloquium, "Teacher and Child — The Interpersonal Relationship," and four seminars. Seminar subjects will be "The Story: Why, Where and How," "The Beacon Curriculum What Lies Beyond?" "Junior High Needs" and "Festivals."

Committees In Charge. Members of the Ethical Culture Fellowship of Princeton will be in charge of the registration coffee. The Cherry Hill Service Committee of Princeton Unitarian Church will serve the luncheon and hosts of the closing tea will be members of the Religious Education Committee of the Unitarian Church.

Among those participating will be Mrs. DeWitt Smith, Mrs. Warren Eason, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hornbeck and Dr. Lillian E. Tenney, all of Princeton; the Rev. Dwight Brown, Trenton Unitarian Church; and Mrs. J. D. Jackson, Trenton.
